ADVICE FROM MISS NATESHA

Dear Miss Natesha,

I am a soon to be mother. I am eight months pregnant and honestly I'm a little nervous. Can you give me some info on how to take my labor?

Sincerely,

Nervous New Mom

Dear Nervous New Mom,

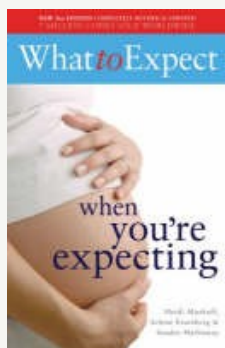

I think you should walk every day, eat healthy foods, and drink a lot of water. Also, pack a bag because you might "go" a little faster than you thought! Okay, now about the labor... Remember to take deep breaths. You might feel some sharp pains but keep your thoughts positive. Then soon after the sharp pains, you will have to push. When the baby arrives, you should hold and kiss him or her; this will make an important bond between you and your baby. Okay, now if you need help with the feeding, remember that the best way is to breast-feed your newborn. But if it is too hard for you then you can bottle-feed. They are getting the same nutrients but breast-feeding is just a little better. Also, you must remember to keep your baby up-to-date on all immunizations and doctor check-ups. If your baby gets sick late at night you should take him or her to the emergency room. Oh yeah, one last thing, make sure you change your babies diaper regularly or your baby will get a diaper rash!

Sincerely,

Miss Natesha (Oasis)

p.s. I believe all new moms should read this book!

Constitution Center Art Trip

23 December 2010 - Ms Christopher

Yesterday several of Ms Christopher's art students and Mr Sheira's AP Government students went and saw the exhibit Art of the American Soldier at the National Constitution Center. This cross curriculum trip allowed students to explore the history of our Nation and see never before exhibited art work commissioned by the United States Army and created by real soldiers. The paintings and drawings spanned from WWI to present day and capture the real soldier experience.

STUDENTS SPEAK OUT!!

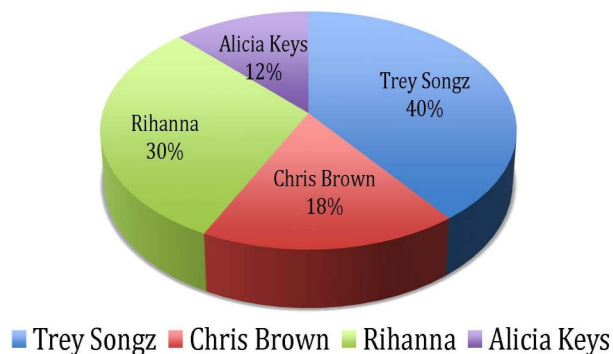

20 December 2010 - A. Brockington (Oasis)

I surveyed University City High School students and here are the results. The results are not what I expected. I thought Chris Brown would have received more votes than Rhianna, but the students have spoken!

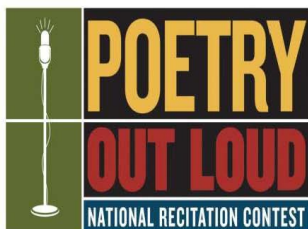

(See Chart to Right For Results)

Stay tuned for my next survey. Until then, peace out and enjoy the holidays!!

Study Island Woes Solved

22 December 2010—Tech Staff Writer

Originally designed as an intervention for students having trouble with Math and English, the Study Island program has now been rolled out as the primary method of engagement for students in 10th and 11th grade. At first there were some networking issues, but with the help of the School District of Philadelphia's Networking and Help Desk Departments, an easy fix was identified. Now, with a new schedule in place, every student required to log in and complete work should have no trouble doing so. The new schedule for equipment use also includes systems to support Read180 and Senior Seminar students who need to finish projects. We are trying diligently to help anyone who has issues. Please report any technology problems to our office in Room237. Additionally, we are the publishers of the Jaguar Times and would love to have as many stories and pictures as possible.
